Spell Book
To combat COVID-19 we are running a marathon of social and physical distancing. And the problem with marathons is that they are long and the sense of achievement is far in the distance. This curated Spell Book of recipes is intended to help you feel a sense of accomplishment. You will be asked to experiment, take pictures, and offer reflections on each recipe result. Fun for the whole family!

Bucket List Makeover

Perhaps your bucket list prior to COVID-19 contained items like skydiving; swimming with dolphins; building houses in Costa Rica; swimming in the Great Barrier Reef; and checking out the San Diego Comic-Con. Now you might find yourself saying that you’d just like to grab a coffee with a friend; pop over to your brother’s place for a poker night; go to the movies with your partner; or host a backyard BBQ. This course will guide you on how to make and decorate your bucket and then fill it with all your new bucket list items that you can pick out once this pandemic is over!

My Story, My Voice

Are you looking for a way to find some meaning from all of this chaos? Do you want to record your experience of living through this historical time? My Story, My Voice helps the novice writer and the literary guru alike to share their thoughts, emotions, and experiences in a variety of ways. Explore traditional journaling; bullet journals; 6 word memoirs; creative writing; and so much more. This course also includes opportunities to share your writing with community projects and our own CMHA Durham Anthology.

Tolerance for Uncertainty: A COVID-19 Workbook

Are you, like so many others, feeling anxious about all the unknowns of this pandemic? Are you feeling exhausted from the constant newsreels, projections, estimations, and general uncertainty? This course is built around a workbook created by Dr. Sachiko Nagasawa. It will take you through some self-care tips, stress management, DBT skills, and self-compassion exercises to help build your resilience.

The TED-Ed project — TED's education initiative — makes short video lessons worth sharing. Within TED-Ed’s growing library of lessons, you will find carefully curated educational videos, many of which are collaborations between educators and animators nominated through the TED-Ed platform. Here are 3 by the Recovery College Wellness Centre. To participate, just click on the link of the TedEd you wish to view!

Are You a Good Listener? https://ed.ted.com/on/twQdU7CL
Stephen R. Covey said, "Most people do not listen with the intent to understand; they listen with the intent to reply."
You can find countless of books, videos and audio files on how to improve your ability to verbally communicate. There is less emphasis put on the importance of listening. Our ability to listen effectively can make or break a conversation.

Are There Universal Expressions of Emotions? https://ed.ted.com/on/K1AqHiOz
Do emotional expressions look the same around the world? Do expressions communicate the same meaning regardless of culture? Is one person’s smile another’s grimace? Let's find out!

Inside the Mind of a Master Procrastinator https://ed.ted.com/on/sRIVHA45
Tim Urban knows that procrastination doesn't make sense, but he's never been able to shake his habit of waiting until the last minute to get things done. In this hilarious and insightful talk, Urban takes us on a journey through YouTube binges, Wikipedia rabbit holes and bouts of staring out the window— and encourages us to think harder about what we're really procrastinating on, before we run out of time.
